

Harold's Story Board, By Gaozheng Wu

Howard wakes up alone early in the morning for a few moments of peace

He gets dressed and departs for another stressful day at work

At lunch, he dines of the usually gruel that has fueled him for most his adult life

He works late at night, often staying until 9 pm at night

On the way back, he feels starved as he hasn't eaten since lunch

He gets home and get some motivation to cook, but opens his fridge, only to find nothing, he wonders if there are any apps that can help you make purchase at the grocery store and suggest recipes to cook a proper meal